Arrowwood Social Credit Study Group Notes

A meeting of the Arrowwood Group was held on Tuesday June 25th, which was in the form of a public meeting. Rev. Peter Dawson of Champion being the principal speaker.

Mr. Dawson's address dealt mainly with the enormous debts being piled under the present system and the utter hopelessness of ever being able to cope with them without a change of some sort.

The Chairman, Mr. Lewendon stated that he thought it quite possible that Mr. McCaffery, of Calgary, would be available as a speaker for the next meeting to be held on Tuesday, July 1st at 8 p.m. On a motion by R. Anderson, the Secretary was instructed to get in touch with Mr. McCaffery and secure him if possible.

A piano solo was given by Grace Board and was much appreciated by those present. Everyone is cordially invited to this next meeting. Don't forget the date, July 9th, in the Arrowwood Theatre.

Brethren Church Notes

Miss Grace Brubaker was the speaking minister at the Sunday evening service. She said a lot of very helpful things, especially along the lines of being careful about your thoughts and the effect of thoughts upon character, countenance, etc.

Four duets by Mrs. Kauffman and Mildred, and a young men's quartet number added much to service. Both numbers were excellent and beautifully rendered.

The congregational singing under the leadership of Russel Burries was exceptionally nice.

GRAIN EXCHANGE MAKES OFFER TO AID PROBE INTO OPERATIONS

Reveals Exchange Suggested Months Ago That Appointment of Pool Man as Government Supervisor Would be Welcomed.

In order to clarify its position in view of statements made at Ottawa, the Winnipeg Grain Exchange has issued the following statement:

"On Friday afternoon the Prime Minister in a speech in the House of Commons reiterated the allegation originally made by Mr. John I. McFarland last October that foreign grain firms were engaged in a bear raid in the Winnipeg market. This allegation was investigated by the Council of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and was fully answered in a statement originally published in the press November 2, 1934, in the following terms:

"On October 1st Winnipeg newspapers carried an interview with Mr. I. McFarland, who is in charge of the government's wheat control, in which he stated that he would recommend to the government to make representations to the governments of Argentina and the United Kingdom that they take action to restrict the export of wheat from those countries to the futures markets in Buenos Aires and Liverpool. About October 4th a mischievous dispatch purporting to be the inside story of an organized bear raid on the Winnipeg grain market during the two previous weeks appeared in many of the leading newspapers throughout Canada. This dispatch originated apparently from some newspaper service in Winnipeg. It made free use of Mr. McFarland's name and its contents would lead many people to believe that figures and supposed facts given in it must have originated from Mr. McFarland's organization. The article is inaccurate and misleading. There was no condition existing in the trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange that would justify such a story. It reads like fiction, and to the best of our knowledge that is just what it is. There is no evidence in the figures showing the market position of grain firms as at September 15th and October 1st, secured by the Council of the Exchange from the Clearing House, and which have been disclosed to Mr. McFarland, that any bear raid was attempted. Mr. McFarland has also been advised by the Council that the International firms whose names have been mentioned in this connection were ready to authorize the Clearing House to make the figures showing their trading available to him.

"The international investigation suggested by Mr. McFarland on October 1st should, in our opinion, not be left until there can be no argument about the fact that our greatest need is to export more Canadian wheat, and if there is any hope that an independent international investigation into the situation in the Canadian, Argentine and English markets will disclose anything in the actions of government agencies or individuals that is making it difficult for us to market our wheat abroad, it should be undertaken immediately. It would obviously be in the interest of the whole country as well as of our wheat producers. If, would, we are sure, be welcomed by the grain trade of Canada.

"The Council of the Exchange is prepared to afford facilities for investigation of the trading operations of all its members without exception by competent and impartial persons. If such an investigation is deemed to be in the public interest, and has previously advised Mr. McFarland that the Exchange would, in addition, lend all possible assistance to a government supervisor of the kind recommended by the Stamp Commission should the government see fit to appoint such a supervisor.

"The action of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange in setting minimum prices for December and May wheat of 75c and 85c per bushel respectively, was taken at the instance of the Dominion government and in pursuance of the policy the Exchange has consistently pursued of co-operating with the Dominion government, and government wheat agency.

"Following the issuance of this statement, R. W. Milner, the President, with the authority of the Council, advised Mr. McFarland that the Winnipeg Grain Exchange would welcome the appointment by the Dominion government, in the position of Exchange supervisor, of George McFarland, who has been assistant to Mr. McFarland since December 1934, and who previously to that was General Sales Manager of the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers Limited (the Pool Central Selling Agency). The offer of the Council that it was prepared to afford facilities for investigation of the trading operations of all its members without exception, and as to the appointment of a Grain Exchange supervisor, as suggested by the Stamp Commission, has never been withdrawn. Representatives of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange now in Ottawa are prepared and anxious to appear before the special committee of the House of Commons, which is authorized to investigate the allegations which have been made with reference to the bear raid, and to supply any information which the committee may require."

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a girl, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her costume for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler life. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home on what seems to be impossible conditions.

Now Go On With The Story

"Thus before they slept that night, the two young people knew that they were to go 'out West.' The arguments put on and can had waged for a good two hours, Aunt Louise protesting vigorously to the very last that her nephew would return East with the manners 'of a bear.'"

"And I warn you too, young man," she asserted grimly, "that you won't find life on a ranch the romantic dream you're picturing to yourself at present. As for your sister—" At this point, however, she ended with a tragic gesture which caused even Nancy to smile a little. There was no doubt whatever that Aunt Louise could perceive no virtue in what she termed "this wild, ridiculous scheme of Jack's"; and even Aunt Lucy suggested with some reluctance that if the boy must go, it might be wise for him to go alone.

"All right," he returned, impatient at what seemed a deadlock, "if this is too much of a hot-house flower to stand transplanting—if she can't put up with a few hardships a little like this, I will go alone, though possibly—"

He hesitated, and his father ended for him: "You're thinking that it's Nancy whom Cousin Columbine really wants to come."

Jack nodded. "She might not pay my carfare if I went alone, Dad."

"So if you go, it looks as if I'd have to pay the girl bitterly. I suppose if I get unbearably fed up with everything I can walk back."

"Two thousand miles on the boot!" grinned her brother, though perfectly aware that she spoke with sarcasm. "That's where your pioneer blood shows up, my dear! If you find our aged relative too impossible you can turn hitch-hiker. See here! I promise solemnly that if you can't stand the job after a month or two, we'll hitch-hike back together. The experiment won't cost Dad a cent; and the chances are we'll have a whale of a good time."

"Good time!" pattered his paternal aunt; when Mother interrupted: "But, Louise, can you see any especially good times for the children if they stay at home?"

Every one turned to her in surprise; while Aunt Louise responded: "Surely, Margaret, you don't approve of this idea?"

"Not wholly; but I've a feeling that both Jack and Nancy will be happier in absolute freedom than round for a time. It's not easy for young folks to adjust themselves to pulled down the shade and snuggled under the blankets.

So they were still in Kansas. Kansas! The idea that she could be there was incredible to Nancy. She was why, Kansas had always seemed as far away as the North Pole—and fully as unattractive! People lived there, of course, but they were quite like themselves. At least, that was how the girl had thought of it; yet that waitress in the lunch room looked—why she looked every bit as up-to-date as the girls behind the lunch counters at Thompson's spa on Washington Street in Boston.

This comparison brought a wave of homesickness to the unwilling exile. What a three weeks it had been since Jack received those telegrams from Cousin Columbine! Such a hectic time. Aunt Judy starting off for Europe with those crazy Spear girls. Hurried trips to Edgewood with Mother. Packing. Deciding what to take and what to leave behind. Getting into the reservations. And those last awful moments at the South Station with Phil wanting to know how they made the sections into a hotel and a thousand foolish questions—Mother smiling unutterably to keep from crying—Aunt Louise arriving at almost the last second with a box of candy, and Dad, his face so terribly set and stern.

Just to recall it made Nancy shudder. Even Jack had lost his enthusiasm for a time and hadn't talked much until the train left Worcester. But now, when the train restored his courage, and since then he'd been the jolliest of companions. She hadn't realized before how nice her brother really was. Not only had he compared her to a hothouse flower or a parlor ornament. Not even when he caught her winking away some tears as the train pulled out.

"Nancy slept after a while, but not for long. It was just when she was slipping down from the upper berth and snapping up the window shade.

"Wake up, sis!" he commanded in an excited whisper. "Look where we are! Why, that's—that must be prairie!"

It was! Nancy sat up, almost as excited as her brother. Prairie! Miles and miles of it, stretching endlessly into a far horizon. Neither then had dimly realized the vastness of those great plains they were to cross—plains which lay dappled by morning sunlight, softly undulating, as far as their astonished eyes could reach.

For the first time since starting on this journey, Nancy forgot her homesickness and was thrilled. She drew a breath born of both amazement and delight. To one who had never seen life had been spent either in a crowded city or surrounded by the sheltering green hills of New England, such limitless space was almost unbelievable. For a time she watched this unfamiliar world slip by, too awed for anything save exclamation. If all seemed wonderful, a herd of grazing cattle—a clump of cottonwoods beside an irrigating ditch—a schoolhouse set in curious isolation considering its purpose and the distance patches of green were some lonely ranch.

Even Jack was silent, too interested, perhaps, to comment; but at last he said: "Let's dare, Nancy. I want to get out and sniff this air at the next station. Breakfast's over, and I'm hungry. Let's go! Let's go! Let's go!"

This was no idle guess. The sun was brighter—the air more sparkling. Nancy admitted that she had never breathed such air. They cut short their breakfast in order to reach the next station. Neither of them had any more to say to the platform.

"And in no time now," said Jack as they swung reluctantly aboard the train again, "we'll be in the arms of your Cousin Columbine will meet us."

Nancy smiled. "Do you remember her first letter? I was to sit quietly in the station until called for!"

"Do you remember? Do you suppose they'll keep up waiting long?" asked Nancy. "I just can't realize that this long trip is nearly over!"

Neither could Nancy; but all too soon they found themselves waiting their turn to leave the train. Good-byes to friendly fellow passengers had been spoken. A smiling air had brushed away the frowns. Nancy, standing behind Jack in the narrow passage, realized suddenly that the hands clutching his pockets, book were trembling. Indeed, all the fear that had gripped her on leaving home was back again as she emerged into the sunlight and joined her brother on the platform.

Jack, smiling a negative to an approaching red cap, rescued their bags from a pile of luggage, and moved toward the station—a beautiful station that made Nancy think of an English manor house. To the west, against an unbelievably blue sky, showed snow-capped Pike's Peak, seeming so near in the clear atmosphere that the girl felt she could reach out and touch it.

"This place certainly looks civilized enough," she observed breathlessly as Jack dropped the bags and stood looking ahead in search of the expected train.

"Civilized!" Her brother laughed. "What did you think you'd see? Wild Indians? Of course it's civilized; but—how do you love O. Mike, Nancy, look there!"

Nancy looked. An Indian arose from being crouched toward them, her shoulders covered by a grey, striped shawl, a wee black-eyed papoose strapped to her back. Said Jack, as she disappeared around a corner: "That relic of old times must have been ordered for our especial benefit. I didn't suppose they carried their kinks like this in the days."

The Flu Menace

Disease Not So Dangerous If Isolated As Soon As Diagnosed

If influenza cases were isolated as soon as diagnosed, the death rate now attributed to the disease would drop to one per cent. of its present figure, Dr. J. W. McIntosh of Vancouver said in an address before the vital statistics section of the Ontario Public Health Association.

"I am perfectly convinced influenza is not a fatal disease," he said. He had tabulated 2,500 deaths attributed to it, but it had been found in all cases death had actually been due to pneumonia or streptococcus, contracted because of overcrowding in hospitals and because of lowered resistance brought on by the flu, he said.

Were Voluntary Exiles

Famous Doctors Have Spent Months Alone in Interests of Science

It is not only in the frozen regions that men have exiled themselves for the sake of science. The famous Dr. Koch spent eighteen months, alone except for the white hermit, on a desolate island in the centre of the great African lake, Victoria Nymanza.

He was investigating the dreaded sleeping sickness which was destroying the natives of the islands and shores of the lake, and made the discovery that the fly which spreads the disease lives on the blood of crocodiles, which it sucks between the scales. Destroy the crocodiles, and the carrier perishes, too.

Another man of medicine, Dr. Andrieu Verhagen, banished himself to the centre of the vast island of Sumatra to investigate beri-beri, another terrible tropical disease. He got into a swamp and was attacked by leeches, but the ordinary bloodsuckers, and a poisonous kind, Dr. Verhagen lost one eye some very near to losing his life.

Yet after he had recovered he continued his journey and gained valuable information about a cure for beri-beri.

Pageant Scene Banned

Gordon Riots Will Not Be Depicted

In London

Depicting the Gordon riots of 1780, one of the 12 historical episodes being rehearsed for the Tower of London Pageant in London, has been banned by the British House of Commons. No reason, it is understood, has been given for the ban, but another episode is to be substituted. The object of the pageant is to raise funds for the Tower Hill Improvement Organization, of which the Prince of Wales is patron. Lord George Gordon, headed the mob which, in June, 1780, marched in procession to the Houses of Parliament to present a monster petition against the Catholic Relief Act. A riot followed and continued for several days, during which the city was virtually at the mercy of the mob.

Little Helps For This Week

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Matthew 18:19.

Take patience, labor to thy heart and hand.

From thy hand, and thy heart, and thy brave cheer.

And God's grace magnify through thee to all.

The least flower with a brimning cup may stand.

And share its dewdrop with another near.

What is meant by our neighbor we cannot doubt. It is everyone who we are brought into contact. First of all he is literally our neighbor who is next to us in our own family and household. Then it is he who is close to us in our own neighborhood, our own town, in our own street. With these all charity begins. To love and be kind to these is the beginning of all true religion. But besides these, as our Lord teaches, is the one who is thrown across our path by the changes and chances of life, he or she who comes to us as a stranger, the unfortunate stranger we may meet in travelling, the friend whom no one else cares to look after.

N. T. Dewitt Dies
Following Illness

Nathan Thomas Dewitt died on Sunday afternoon while being brought to the Vulcan Municipal Hospital, following an illness of one year's duration. He was 73 years and 26 days old at the time of passing.

Mr. DeWitt came Alberta from Indiana in 1904. At that time he took up homestead land in the Nanton district. Six years later, in 1910, he moved to the Vulcan district, where he took up farm land, since residing here.

He is survived by his widow four sons, Thomas, Didibury, Wilmore of Arrowwood, Mark of Arrowwood, and Joe of Vulcan, and one daughter Ruth of Vulcan.

Funeral services were held from the Church of Christ on Tuesday, June 18th, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Rev. E. G. Hansell officiated at the services. Interment was made in the Vulcan Cemetery with the Standard Funeral Home in charge of the arrangements. —Vulcan Advocate

Brethren Church

There was an excellent choice of hymns and nearly everybody took part.

The Sunday School Picnic has been postponed because of the epidemic sickness in the community.

Rev. Clarence Brubaker will preach next Sunday morning. A unique musical program is in process of preparation for next Sunday evening. You cannot afford to miss it.

The Young People will be especially fortunate in the personnel of the camp leadership this year. In addition to Rev. Mr. Brightbill, the director there will be other most excellent help. Mr. Paul Weaver, a Seminary student with considerable camp experience is making a great sufficient effort to be here to help along. He has recently driven a new automobile from Detroit to California.

But he is choosing rather to help where there is a greater need, here at Arrowwood. So he is hitch-hiking from Southern California to Arrowwood for that purpose. The Camp will be held on the Blackfoot reserve July 11 to 16. All young people are welcome. Give your registration fee to Russell Burris or Melvin Bowman soon so they can make the necessary preparations and purchases.

Sunday morning is the regular time for the offering for District Mission purposes. Forty-six Leadership Training credits will be granted on Sunday morning in a special service for that purpose.

Baseball Notes

Behind the steady pitching of Blair the Gleichen team played clever baseball to hand the Arrowwood team its third defeat in four league games. The winners collected twelve safe hits, which coupled with costly Arrowwood errors, enabled them to send a dozen runs across the plate and win the game by a 4 run margin. The game was productive of some excellent baseball but errors by both teams detracted from the game's display.

Fred Miller pitched the entire game for the locals, and although twelve hits were collected from his delivery, the Gleichen nine found difficulty in driving the balls to the outfield. The local Arrowwood nine played good ball until the eighth inning when Gleichen started a rally when Gleichen started a rally which netted them 5 runs.
